In addition to reviewing the application and student essay, the committee concentrates on the student's academic record, personal recommendation(s), extracurricular activities, and test scores. Additional consideration for admission is given to applicants who possess unusual strengths or accomplishments.

Daniel Matthew demonstrates a commitment to enrolling students from a wide geographic range as well as from all ethnic and racial heritages.

We welcome applications without regard to race, religion, color, disability, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, marital status, pregnancy, sexual orientation, political belief, or military status.

International students should submit the materials listed above, as well as official results of Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL or IELTS) and a declaration of finances indicating the applicant's or a sponsor's ability to pay the costs required to attend college in the United States. This information is required by the United States government and will be held in the strictest confidence. SAT or ACT scores are recommended, but not required.

Certification Enrollees

Students planning to seek certification in one of the certification programs are encouraged to submit a portfolio of their field of interest for review by the School of Ecclesiastical studies. Upon receipt of the portfolio, the dean, department chair, and appropriate faculty will review the items. The evaluation will then be sent to the Admission Office as a supplemental assessment tool.

Internationally educated applicants whose educational documents are in a foreign language are required to have their credentials translated into English by an official from the secondary school.
